

THE UNIFICATION OF GODE THEORY WITH THEORY OF EVERYTHING

Physicists have unified three of the four fundamental forces theories, the strong force, the weak force and the electromagnetical force into the Quantum Field Theory.

Only the gravitational force remains and, when unified, the theory will be called The Theory of Everything.

The best candidate for it is the String Theory, which considers all particles in reality to be only one particle called String, with different vibrations corresponding to each classic particle.

Every consciousness converts the cosmic, divine energy into matter at almost Gode Constant speed (plus infinite), creating an Universe. Space and time don't exist outside someone's consciousness, only the cosmic energy and the other consciousnesses. We can create the present, the past and the future.

This was proven by the double slit experiment, the double wall double slit experiment and by the telekinesis everyone can perform.

Some scientists say that the double slit experiment proves that the reality is influenced by our consciousness, not created. If so, why telekinesis can be performed at any distance and through any obstacle, like me and others proved? Why Earth wasn't modified in the periods of plague in Feudalism?

A consciousness can give and receive cosmic energy from another consciousness or non-alive object, influencing the reality created, but the final decision belongs to each one's consciousness.

What we perceive as "reality" is only the average of the energies emitted by others, suggestion we can accept or reject.

Each one's block of matter which forms the reality can be interpreted as the string and the cosmic energy used to create it as the vibration.

The difference between the String theory and my theory is that the former states that the string exists outside each one's consciousness. If so, how can matter evolved into a life which constantly changes it by observation, as proved by the double slit experiment? It's like breaking your own rules.

As a final note, scientists proved that the mammals, birds and plants are self-aware, have consciousnesses like humans do. This makes me logically state that all sexed animals and plants have this quality.
